

Press Release: The Blowing Raspberries Drop Debut Single “Wherever You Are”

Dad Sound with Daughter Attitude: The First Strike of “ze Best Bänd of ze Länd”!

The father-daughter duo—J.C. and Kaykay—blend nostalgia and a modern edge in a way only they can, and are ready to make their mark on the music world with the release of their debut single, “Wherever You Are.”

With J.C. rooted in the Black Forest’s lush charm and Kaykay thriving in Sydney’s bustling music scene, “Wherever You Are” is more than a song—it’s an emotional anthem for long-distance bonds. The track delivers a unique fusion of J.C.’s 80s-inspired synth grooves and Kaykay’s fresh, contemporary attitude.

As the first single off their upcoming album, “Nope,” “Wherever You Are” signals a bold beginning for The Blowing Raspberries. Their signature blend of humour, nostalgia, and edgy experimentation sets the tone for an album that promises to be anything but predictable.

Yet, becoming a true fan—aka a Raspberian— isn’t just about loving the music. It’s a state of mind. Only when you own neon leg warmers, a Netflix account, and a Prada toothbrush, you’re entering the TRUE Raspberian grindset.

“Wherever You Are” celebrates the duo’s international roots, playfully name-dropping iconic cities like Vienna, New York, and Tokyo in its vibrant chorus. The single reminds listeners that no matter the distance—whether across oceans or just a room apart—true connection is timeless. With this unforgettable debut, The Blowing Raspberries establish themselves as a band that’s equal parts nostalgic and refreshingly innovative.

True to their slogan—“Dad Sound with Daughter Attitude: The First Strike of the Best Bänd of ze Länd!”—The Blowing Raspberries prove they’re here to shake up the music world with their unique chemistry and bold sound.
